

About Pauline Harvey-Short OAM

Pauline has had 42 years Health and Physical Education teaching experience in both the state and independent sectors. She graduated from the University of Queensland with a Bachelor of Human Movements and a Master of Philosophy.

Her Master's thesis focussed on girls' secondary school sporting experiences and the place Brisbane Girls Grammar holds in the Queensland education landscape using material culture as the medium. She is the author of To become fine sportswomen: The History of Health, Physical Education and Sport at Brisbane Girls Grammar School 1875-2010.

As chair of the ACHPER Women in Sport Special Interest Group and President of Womensport Queensland, she worked to advocate and promote women in sport at both the elite level and at grassroots.

Pauline represented Australia in softball and is currently the Manager of School History and Culture at Brisbane Girls Grammar School.
